Outcome In Germany Will Affect Course Of World, Wolfe Says

Either the Kremlin or Washington will lead the world in the years to come," said Henry C. Wolfe, author and correspondent who addressed the Town Hall meeting Monday night in the High School.

(By Associated Press)

STUTTGART, Germany, Feb. 4.—Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay told American newspapermen today to expect stronger Nazi subversive movements to appear in American-occupied Germany.

The general said present day conditions were more conducive to the growth of stronger underground movements. Transportation and communications difficulties previously hindered their operations, he said.

auditorium. "This presents today's challenge and an opportunity for this country."

Wolfe's talk, "Searchlight On Germany," was based on information gathered during his latest trip to Europe which ended a few weeks ago.

In describing Germany, Wolfe opined that it is where Russia meets the West and that it is the key to the entire world problem.

"What happens in Germany will ultimately determine whether or not we will ever go to war with Russia," he said.

Wolfe made it clear that he did not believe the differences between the U. S. and Soviet Russia are merely "misunderstandings," but declared there is a fundamental difference in the way of life in both countries.

Says England Weakened

Today in the world, according to the speaker, there are two really major powers—the U. S. and Russia—with all the others too weakened by the ravages of war to be able to stand alone. He described England as tired, poor and weak and not at all the rich powerful empire it used to be. That it is one of the major powers as far as the world is concerned, is a result of this country's influence, since it is to our advantage that England should not fall.

France, another country that has lost its former importance, is not an independent country. Instead, Wolfe said, "it is ruled by a political situation," and though it is not governed by the Communist party, that party's influence is very strong.

There is no patriotism in France today—a quality that was once very high in France—and the morale is very low. The country is divided and there is no real leadership.

Stable Germany Required

Wolfe described Germany as a "never-never land." He told of the extreme poverty in which the country's inhabitants are living and of

Ministers Extend Service Series

Because of the interest manifested by Salem church-goers in the Sunday evening union services sponsored by the Salem Ministerial association, the present series, scheduled to close Sunday evening, Feb. 16, will be continued through Lent.

This decision was made at a meeting of the association Monday in the public library assembly room.

Plans were made for a three-hour Good Friday service, Friday, April 4, the place to be announced later.

Plans were also discussed for noonday services during Lent, although no definite decision was reached.

The association will give its full support to the World Day of Prayer program, Friday, Feb. 21, in charge of the Salem Federation of Church Women.

Several of the members are planning to go to Pittsburgh next Tuesday to hear Pastor Martin Niemöller, who spent eight years in a German prison under the Hitler regime.

Rev. David E. Moynihan presented an interesting paper on "World Missions."

FIELDHOUSE IN BOARD'S FUTURE PLANS

Impactical At Present Time, Civic Committee Is Told

A discussion of possible approaches to a fieldhouse for Salem was a part of the board of education's February meeting Monday night.

Curtis Vaughan, representing the Salem Civic committee, asked the board its opinions on the best methods of financing erection of a fieldhouse and discussed the possibilities with them.

No official recommendation was made by the board, but each member expressed personal opinions.

In Long-Range Program

The board, however, indicated to Vaughan that adequate gymnasium facilities for the athletic program in the schools was provided in a long-range program, which includes a new high school.

Members said that erection of a fieldhouse now, with intentions of later adding a high school, would be impracticable at this time.

They approved the employment of Martin Limpose as assistant janitor at Reilly school.

The board approved a trip to Columbus for Supt. E. S. Kerr and Holland W. Cameron for a conference with the state supervisor of vocational education.

N. Lima Station Operator Killed

NORTH LIMA, Feb. 4.—Joseph C. Perrell, 30, gasoline filling station operator, was killed, and his wife, Irene, 20, was critically injured when their car crashed into a truck-trailer near Akron Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Perrell were en route home from Columbus where they had gone to spend the weekend with his parents.

Morris H. Wickes, 28, of Greenburg, O., driver of the truck, was uninjured. He told state highway patrolmen that he was making a left turn under a traffic light when the Perrell car crashed into the rear of the tractor.

Perrell was a World War veteran, having served in the army about four years. He came to North Lima from Columbus about a year ago having taken over operation of the gasoline station here.

Mrs. Perrell is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nichols of Niles.

SEBRING POTTERY FIRE LOSS HIGH

ALLIANCE, Feb. 4.—A boiler explosion and fire wrecked the Grindley Art Ware Co. at nearby Sebring Monday, causing damages estimated by A. T. Grindley, president, at $175,000.

Fire Chief Frank Timmer said defective boiler valves caused the explosion.

Members of the Alliance fire department aided Sebring volunteer firemen but the flames which fashed through the one-story brick building, 100 by 125 feet, were beyond control.

The fire destroyed all the valuable equipment, including two continuous kilns, and an undetermined amount of chinaware.

The plant employed 135 persons.

100,000 Accident Death Toll Last Year Above '45 Record

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Accidents in the United States in 1946 killed 100,000 persons, injured millions and caused an estimated economic loss of $5,600,000,000, the National Safety council said today.

The death toll was four percent above the 1945 total of 95,918 but the council said the 100,000 figure "is significant when it is recalled that at the end of the first four months of 1946 the motor vehicle death toll alone was up 45 percent."

Motor accidents alone accounted for 33,500 deaths. Passenger deaths on the railroads totaled 89 and on regularly scheduled airlines 75.

A man's own home appeared the least safe place of all. In home accidents, 34,000 persons died.

His place of work seemed somewhat safer. Occupational accidents killed 16,500.

One out of every 13 persons in the country suffered a disabling injury last year.

The biggest single disaster of the year was Atlanta's Winecoff hotel fire, in which 119 persons died, and the LaSalle hotel fire at Chicago, in which 61 perished.

Traffic fatalities were up 19 percent over 1945. Railroad passenger fatalities dropped 26 percent. Regarding air accidents, the council said:

The passenger death rate per 100,000 passenger-miles in 1946, based on preliminary information, was 1.2—a decrease of 43 percent from the rate of 2.1 and equalling the previous low mark in 1939.

The $5,600,000,000 estimated economic loss from accidents included wage losses, medical expense, production delays, damage to equipment in occupational accidents and property damage from traffic mishaps and fires.

Although the 100,000 dead was a four percent increase over 1945, only five years since 1900 showed a lower all-accident death rate than the 71.4 per hundred thousand recorded in 1946, the council said.

Causes of Death Shown

Causes of accidental deaths included falls, 27,800; burns, 18,200; drownings, 7,300, and firearm accidents, 3,100. The high number of firearm accidents, a 24 percent increase over 1945, was "probably due in part to war souvenirs," the council commented.

The closing months of the year showed traffic deaths on the decline. During the first four months they averaged 45 percent higher than the preceding year. Toward the end of 1946 they leveled off at the 1945 rate.

The council attributed the improvement to "a concerted safety program by public officials and safety organizations" instituted after President Truman's highway safety conference last May.

It kept the traffic death toll 6,500 short of 1941's all time high of 39,969, the council said.

$500 Increase Sought

Board To Consider Teachers Wage Plea At Meeting Tonight

Salem public school teachers demanded a blanket salary increase of $500 each for the current school year when they appeared before the board of education at the High School building Monday night.

The board heard the request, presented by a five-man committee of the Salem Teachers' association, and decided in a later discussion to extend itself to cut operating expenses and grant any increases possible at this time.

The board decided to have its finance committee meet with the Teachers' association salary committee at 7 tonight to consider immediate action.

The teachers' committee was backed up in the meeting by 35 teachers from the public schools, including the High School, Junior High and the grade schools.

Melvin Franks, chairman of the teachers' committee, presented the request for the $500 increase, basing this on increased living costs and stating that the teachers also asked annual increments in salary of $100 per annum instead of the $75 now contained in the salary schedule.

To Scan Expenditures

The board explained its situation, stating that it had granted all the increases in salary that its current income would allow, but Member E. S. Dawson said he felt that by a careful scrutiny of current operating expenses and cutting of corners on expenditures, the board might find some additional funds.

The board and Supt. E. S. Kerr explained that only three methods of increasing teacher salaries are possible.

The cutting of corners would, if possible, allow an immediate increase, Dawson pointed out, but the other two methods would not allow immediate relief for the instructor.

Dawson said projected state legislation, allowing more income to school systems through Foundation program based on student attendance, and the possibility of asking taxpayers for an additional tax levy for teachers' salaries are both long-range propositions and would not relieve the present problem.

Salem now requires four and a half mills in levies to operate its schools, it was explained.

Complaint of Teachers

One teacher stated that the question was simply that "we are not earning enough money to meet our living expenses and consequently will have to receive an increment immediately or seek other positions."

Another stated that "unless some adjustment is made before March 4 a lot of us will not sign our contracts for 1947-48."

One teacher, of considerable experience in the school system here said "basically, most of us love teaching school. We have trained ourselves for that purpose and hate to give it up, but if the question of supporting our families arises, we naturally are going to seek the jobs that pay money."

An increase offered by the board will be exclusive of later action by the state legislature, members indicated Monday.

The teachers' committee includes Franks as chairman, Willard Perrell, Mrs. Helen Redinger, W. A. Stacey and Mrs. Wallace Duncan.

The board of education finance committee, to meet with the teachers' group tonight, includes Dawson, F. P. Mullins and G. P. Lozier.

Caught With $4,738 Loot

The trio escaped temporarily with $4,738 in cash taken from Manager Byron Maxson and his assistant, Palmer Yoder, at the side of the Murphy store Saturday night, Nov. 16.

They were apprehended near Alliance as they sped away with the loot.

Maxson and Yoder yesterday related their experience in being accosted by the trio just after leaving the store at 10 p. m. and told "this is a stick-up" and guns were thrust into their ribs and back. When Maxson offered resistance he was slugged over the head with a gun butt by the men who threatened to shoot him, and then seized the money bags and fled in a car at the curb.

Maxson stated he reported the matter immediately to the police and it was broadcast on the police shortwave radio, with the result that the trio was apprehended a few minutes later as they drove into Alliance by Patrolmen George Sotcan and James Nutter.

Tells of B-B-E Attempt

Patrolman Sotcan related the capture of the trio after forcing their car to the curb and disarming them, securing three guns, a .38-caliber, a .38 caliber pistol and a .45-caliber nickel-plated German automatic, the first two being loaded.

The officer also told of three attempts of the trio to "buy off" the police, saying: "All police departments are rackets, there's plenty of dough in them bags, why don't you take it and just forget that you saw us?"

Chief of Police Nerr Gaunt and City Solicitor Henry Reese were among the witnesses called to the stand Monday afternoon by Prosecutor Frank W. Springer.

HONG KONG, Feb. 4.—The bodies of 136 persons were removed today from the charred hulk of the Chinese river steamer Salon, several hours after the 1,700-ton craft had caught fire at her wharf here.

Authorities feared there might be additional bodies in the wreckage. Scores of the passengers—mostly Chinese—leaped overboard. Some may have drowned.

The Salon, which had been plying between Hong Kong and Canton, was carrying a highly inflammable cargo of cotton and paper. Many of the steerage passengers were trapped below decks.

Unofficial reports circulated that arson was involved. The owners of the Salon were reported to have received a threatening letter.

SNOW SNARLS TRAFFIC IN ALL OF OHIO

Northwest Gale Brings Cold To End Moderate Temperatures

A northwest gale, which originated in the Canadian Yukon last weekend, swept Ohio today, bringing freezing cold and snow to every sector.

The generally high temperatures of Monday and Sunday collapsed in the face of the onslaught which first struck Ohio's northwestern area shortly after midnight.

Despite a bright sun, the mercury dropped to 8 above at noon today, according to records at the city's sewage disposal plant northwest of town.

26 at 6 a. m. Today

This was the low reading for the past 24 hours. It was 34 at noon Monday and by 6 a. m. today the mercury had slid to 26.

Industrial use of natural gas affected the plant of the Salem China Co., which was forced to shut down a decorating kiln. The other kilns are oil burners.

Icy winds, reaching velocities in some quarters of 37 miles an hour, pushed down temperatures as much as 40 degrees in ten hours.

Generally the mercury fell between 26 to 34 degrees throughout the state and mean temperatures of zero to five above were predicted for tonight and tomorrow.

The accompanying snow and cold strangled traffic everywhere. An almost complete stoppage in the flow of gas to Cleveland and Youngstown industrial concerns was reported at 10 a. m.

The East Ohio Gas Co., augmented by a Federal Power commission order providing 8,000,000 to 17,000,000 additional cubic feet daily from the Big and Little Ingham pipelines, permitted only enough gas to northeastern Ohio industrial plants to prevent oil in machinery from freezing.

Dayton Is Coldest Spot

Coldest spot in Ohio during the early advance of the new cold front was Dayton where a light snow shortly before dawn preceded temperature readings of two above zero by 8 a. m.

Toledo, which last week dug out from under one of its worst storms, reported five above in the early forenoon and was preparing for sub-zero weather by nightfall.

State Highway Director Murray D. Shaffer reported snow and ice conditions prevailing over all state roads, and urged driving caution.

The Port Columbus airport reading was five above by 8:30 a. m. and forecasters said still colder weather was in prospect.

Trains Slowed

Chicago and Pittsburgh trains, coming into Columbus during the snowstorm hours, were behind schedule. Planes, however, were still operating without interruption.

Other temperatures reported before noon included a low of 10 at Cleveland and 7.9 at Cincinnati.

The East Ohio Gas Co. notified Youngstown to stop using natural gas at noon. Elsewhere, East Ohio was supplying industrial users only enough gas to keep facilities from freezing.

Seeing Will Be Believing

The newest gesture of reconciliation between AFL and CIO—a proposal of merger from William Green to Philip Murray—leaves onlookers indifferent. The two largest organizations in union labor's divided house may get together sometime, but seeing will be believing.

It could happen. It may happen. But it hasn't happened yet and isn't likely to happen, because there now are too many persons inside the organized labor movement with something to lose if the movement doesn't stay split up the way it is.

The decision to effect a merger would have to be made by the same men whose own prestige, jobs and salaries might be wiped out by a merger. Even though it is argued that merger would be logical, efficient and would give the unions a solid front against critics and reformers—the claims Mr. Green makes in his letter to Mr. Murray—the fact is that a merger would be poison for thousands of union officials and employees who would lose all or part of their equities in the labor movement. Everything about their personal circumstances causes them to want to keep organized labor divided.

The only union official with something clearly to gain is John L. Lewis. As founder of the C.I.O. and heir-apparent to the presidency of AFL, he would be the logical choice to head up the "one big union" that always will be a possibility, but so far is not a probability. It takes little imagination to suspect that it was Mr. Lewis, not Mr. Green, who renewed the invitation to Mr. Murray to think seriously about a merger.

No Face-Spitting

The no-strike no-lockout agreement between the Associated General Contractors of America and the building and construction trades department of American Federation of Labor amounts to an agreement not to cut off any noses to spite any faces.

It is the most logical move between management and union labor since the similar agreement not to cripple the United States by suspending work while this country was fighting for its—and their—freedom. The public only can hope the AFL and the contractors will have better luck keeping their promise than labor union spokesmen had during the war.

There is every conceivable reason why they should be able to keep it; conditions never were more favorable. The building industry has reasonable assurance of all the work it can do for years to come; during the next few years, moreover, it will be working in a seller's market. Construction workers, having attained the highest wage levels in history, can look forward to a continuation of record-breaking income while they consume the backlog of accumulated work.

The building industry is only one representative segment of the optimistic business picture presented by the President's Council of Economic Advisers—a picture of a country with almost limitless opportunities to create new wealth by its own efforts, depending on whether it chooses to make the efforts. The building industry is giving itself a green light.

Edison and Bell

Today, as an uneasy world lives under the threat of possible scientific destruction, it is reassuring to consider the lives of two scientists whose interest was in peaceful progress and in adding to human comfort, convenience and happiness.

They are Thomas Alva Edison and Alexander Graham Bell, both born 100 years ago, within a month of each other—Edison on Feb. 11 and Bell on March 3. They were born into a world slow of pace and isolated by distance. Mechanized industry was in its infancy, and hard manual labor was the rule. It was a world of many attractions and of many virtues which we might copy. But it also was a world which to us today would probably seem one of intolerable hardship.

Together with men like Marconi, Ford and the Wright brothers, Edison and Bell saw the face of civilization altered by their own work within their own lifetimes. The tempo of living was speeded up. The very pattern of human existence, except in the more primitive regions, was changed.

Today the miracles these two men wrought are commonplace. The telephone and the electric light are almost an extension of our ears and eyes, and are used almost as instinctively.

Edison and Bell grew up in vastly different environments. Bell came from a scholarly, financially comfortable Scottish family, and received a good education. Edison had only three months of formal schooling and was self-supporting from his 15th year. But they possessed at least three things in common: a capacity for a vast amount of work, an absorbing, intelligent curiosity about a wide range of subjects, and, of course, genius.

Though he is remembered largely for the incandescent lamp and the phonograph, Edison did a prodigious amount of work in many lines. He explored the whole field of electro-mechanics, improving and developing, as well as inventing. He made distinguished contributions to industrial chemistry. He developed a forerunner of the radio tube. His inventive labors covered a span of 50 years, and he was the holder of more than one thousand patents.

Bell was a musician, a philanthropist and a humanitarian as well as an inventor. His abiding interest for which he wanted to be remembered best was his distinguished work in teaching the totally deaf to speak.

He was also a pioneer enthusiast and supporter of aviation. A man-carrying kite which he built might be called the father of the glider, and he helped develop the airplane's aileron. He also financed the early work of a group of young air enthusiasts which included Glenn Curtiss and Thomas Selfridge.

Perhaps it is well that Bell and Edison did not live to see the climax of destruction for which, at the close of the century following their birth, the fruits of scientific invention were employed. For, above all, their lives and work seem to have been motivated by benevolence. They labored incessantly that their fellowman's work might be easier and his life pleasanter. They unlocked the mysteries of nature for good, not for evil and death.

The reassurance that we might find in their lives is that the purposes of Edison and Bell seem to be typical of most scientists. If we can establish an atmosphere in which they will not be compelled to turn their talents to destruction, the scientific heirs to these two men may again transform the world in a century, and transform it for the better.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, February 5

ALTHOUGH affairs are under a progressive and expansive trend it may take some clever strategies as well as some sort of special effort or well-directed programs to avert complications or the withdrawal of support from sources of critical importance. Subtle, sagacious or even undercover agreements, or understandings as side issues, may eventually prove most propitious and of lasting benefit. But such tactics call for exceptional skill and finesse. Shun rash and impulsive acts, as the judgment may not be dependable, or decisions clear.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of intriguing and involved situations in which the judgment is liable to be obscure and the emotions and impulses of wayward, reckless and perilous nature. This might alienate the aid and generous support of those whose assistance is vital to the long-range and expanding outcome of current interests. It would be well to treat critical situations with finesse and subtlety, with a dash of fair intrigue or tact understandings.

A child born on this day may have much cleverness, ability and shrewdness, apt to gain its objectives by stratagem and subtlety rather than its turbulent or obscure judgment.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

A Continually Hoarse Throat

BY HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE usually think of hoarseness as a sign of sore throat or of an ordinary cold and yet, this familiar symptom may be caused by dozens of other conditions, some of which are of the utmost seriousness.

A number of these disorders are located in the larynx or voice box, while others affect the body as a whole. For instance, tumor growths in the larynx produce hoarseness, but so may syphilis and tuberculosis chronic lead poisoning, diphtheria, nerve inflammation, heart disorders and some diseases of the brain and spinal cord.

Other Causes

Other causes of hoarseness include cancer either in the larynx itself or in the structures around it, such as the windpipe, esophagus and thyroid gland.

For these reasons it should be obvious that hoarseness is nothing to pass off with a shrug. Until the cause is found, proper treatment cannot be given. That is why the doctor makes a careful study in each case. Furthermore, it must be remembered that some of the conditions which cause hoarseness may turn out to be serious, particularly cancer of the larynx. If this condition is discovered early and properly treated, it can be completely relieved in eight out of ten cases. Later, it is hopeless.

Have an Examination
A person who suffers from hoarseness for longer than two or three weeks should not delay in having an examination of the larynx made with an instrument known as a laryngoscope. This is a tube with lights which can be passed into the larynx so that the physician can look directly at the laryngeal lining membrane. Furthermore, if a growth is present a bit of the tissue from it can be removed and examined under the microscope to make sure of the diagnosis.

Of course, a general physical examination should also be carried out, including an X-ray of the chest, so that any disorders which may be present and responsible for hoarseness may be discovered. In any event, long-continued hoarseness is a matter for some concern and should never be neglected.

Letters to Dr. Bundesen should be addressed in care of 235 E. 45th st., New York City.

Jailed 14 Years For Murder, Wins New Trial

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. — Fourteen years after the event, the Supreme court today ordered a new trial for a Michigan boy who was accused of murder, tried and sentenced to life imprisonment all on the same day.

In an unanimous opinion the court held that through the speed of that procedure the defendant, Rene De Meerleer, was deprived of rights essential to a fair hearing under the federal constitution.

De Meerleer was charged with the robbery-slaying of a gasoline station attendant. He was 17 years old at the time. His attorney told the Supreme court that "the word 'guilty' was literally put into his mouth" in the county court.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON—Hawaii wants to be a state and maybe it will make the grade this year. Maybe.

At least its representative in congress thinks Hawaii's chances for "some action" are better in 1947 than ever before.

Hawaii has tried to become a state ever since congress made it a territory in 1900.

Joseph R. Farrington, Hawaiian delegate to congress, says today:

"The chance for some action this year is more favorable than any time in Hawaii's history."

Before anything can be done, congressional committees will have to hold hearings.

Farrington expects one of them—the house committee on public lands—to start hearings within a couple of weeks.

He says Rep. Welch, California Republican and chairman of that committee, told him this week:

Reports To Be Heard
The committee will start hearings as soon as the War, Navy and Interior departments can make reports on Hawaii.

Here is the history which led up to all this:

Hawaii—a group of Pacific islands, 2,400 miles from San Francisco—was discovered in 1778 by Capt. James Cook, an Englishman.

In the following years the representatives of many nations settled there with the natives.

By the middle of the 1800's Hawaii had its own laws and legislature.

under a king. The ruling queen was deposed in 1893.

A republic was set up then. Congress in 1898 annexed the islands, and, in 1900, made them a territory, the last step before statehood.

It's been a territory since.

520,000 Population
It has a governor, appointed by the U. S. President; two federal judges; a U. S. attorney and marshal; other officials connected with government departments; its own local laws and judges; its own elected legislature, with a 15-man senate and a 30-man house.

And every two years it elects to congress a delegate who can represent Hawaii there and introduce bills but who cannot vote. Delegate Farrington now is serving his third term.

By being a state, Hawaii would have two representatives and two senators; it would get all the federal benefits any state gets; and it would elect its own governor.

The civilian population is about 520,000. Hawaii has 6,000 square miles of land, more than Rhode Island and Connecticut together.

Sugar and pineapples are its chief products for export.

Since 1900 the Hawaiian legislature has petitioned congress 14 times to make the territory a state.

Plan Veterans' Housing
HAMILTON, Feb. 4. — A group of war veterans in need of homes have announced a plan to build a subdivision of 127 homes on a 52-acre plot on the north side of town.

Maurice W. Taylor, chairman of the steering committee of Frank Durwin American Legion Post No. 138, which is sponsoring the group, said the project would cost $1,000,000.

SCHOOL CUSTODIAN THWARTS BURGLAR
A school safe robber, striking at Canfield High school Monday, opened up with pistol fire on the school custodian when the custodian fired a shot to thwart the burglary.

The thief was driven off only after the custodian, courageously continued the gun battle.

Sheriff deputies reported that the robber escaped through a broken window, apparently untouched in the exchange of shots. The custodian, C. B. Harter, was unhurt.

The robbery followed theft of $1200 cash from the Boardman school safe Friday night and coincided with an attempt to rob a North Jackson school shortly after the Canfield attempt.

At Canfield, Harter was seated in the basement about 1:30 a. m. when he heard the sound of glass breaking. He investigated and surprised one of the burglars in the main corridor of the school building.

Gas...the magic fuel...solves

Why can cook book cookery be such a mystery—particularly for younger cooks? It's so exasperating to follow the directions of an inviting recipe right down to the letter and then have the cake fall flat, or the roast wither and shrink, or the pie turn soggy and sag.

When fancy dishes flop, do you ever ask: "Who dunnit?"

You can't pin the crime on the butler... so Mama blames the cook book and Papa suspects the cook, but the real culprit is very likely to be incorrect timing and temperature control.

THE SOLUTION: You'll have the clue to easy, effortless cooking when you see the new gas ranges. The instantaneous gas flame gives you quick selectivity of proper heat and then uniform temperature cooks as it should.

When the cook book calls for an oven heat of 350°, or 200°, or 500°—just set the thermostat and rest assured that the spacious gas oven will cook evenly throughout and at just the right temperature.

When the cook book specifies quick pre-heating, or tells you to quickly bring to a boil... you have the new, high-speed giant burner to do your bidding. Or when modern cooking methods instruct you to cook vegetables very slowly in just a little water... use the handy simmer burners. And again you have quick heat selectivity at your fingertips when you give meat that delicious flame flavor in the big, smokeless gas broiler.

It's easy to follow cooking instructions when you cook on a modern gas range. So see these new gas ranges now on display at your Gas Appliance Dealer's or at your Gas Company Office. Place your order now to be certain of earliest possible delivery.

Color To Be Big Thing In Men's Clothing

CHICAGO, Feb. 4—The Merchants Tailors and Designers Association presented its ideas for men's wear today—including colorful yellow dinner jackets to be worn with brown trousers, an ecru shirt, and waffle-cut gold studs.

Color is the keynote this year, Ralph Carver, Los Angeles, president of the association, asserted at the opening sessions of the convention.

"Color is the big thing," he said, "with comfort running a close second. Clothes are looser, more comfortable, easier to get into."

"There is a trend toward wider lapels; in fact, a more generous use of materials can be noted in everything. This is probably a reaction from wartime restrictions."

Price? "We'd rather not talk prices," Carver said. "It has a bad public reaction. But color is here to stay."

Lewis Opposed To Trade Agreement Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4—Congressman Earl R. Lewis of Ohio appeared before the interdepartmental committee on reciprocity information in behalf of the glass and pottery industries, both vital industries in Eastern Ohio.

The committee, set up under the authority of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement act, is now holding hearings preliminary to the trade agreement negotiations which will begin in April at Geneva, Switzerland, between representatives of 18 nations.

Congressman Lewis pointed out that in the past such negotiations resulted in nothing but a consistent lowering of the protective duties and the opening of the American markets to foreign competition. Lewis is opposed to such negotiations on the part of the State department and confidently expects Congress to take some action concerning them.

Unprecedented Output Of Steel Is Forecast

CLEVELAND, Feb. 4—Steel will flow from the nation's mills in quantities unprecedented in U. S. peacetime history during the first three months of 1947, the magazine Steel predicted today.

"Extension of the present wage agreement with the steelworkers' union," the magazine said, "assures producers of the largest peacetime first quarter output in history and will afford them an opportunity to reduce their large volume of unfilled business."

Fan Enthusiasm Forces Unprecedented Steps In Cage Race

Telephone Broadcast, Fan Clinics And Division Of Tourney New Steps For Ohio

By DON STULL
Ohio A. P. Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, Feb. 4.—The enthusiasm of Ohio's high school basketball fans is forcing unprecedented steps to handle crowds this season.

First, Ohio High School Athletic Commissioner H. W. Emswiler suggested a series of pre-season clinics to acquaint fans with new rules to avoid unruly crowds in rafters-packed gymnasiums.

Next, the OHSAA divided the State Class A and B March 20-22 tournament finals into two sections—Class B in the afternoon and Class A at night—to accommodate individual team followers.

But last week in Northeastern Ohio they came up with something new in fan-pleasing ventures—telephone broadcasts to take care of followers who couldn't jam their way into the playing site.

The telephonic maneuver, sponsored by The Salem News, came off in the East Liverpool Memorial auditorium as Salem, undefeated in 10 games for the season, met East Liverpool's Pettis, whose early season record of eight in a row had been broken by these same Salem Quakers.

A total of 1,825 fortunate fans gained admittance to the gym which normally seats but 1,600. Another 800 gathered in East Liverpool High's auditorium and another 1,000 packed Salem High's auditorium (28 miles away) to the roof beams to hear Don Beattie, sports editor of the Salem News, describe the contest over a telephone loud speaker system.

And what they heard was Salem getting beaten, 44 to 38, to spoil a perfect season to date.

Salem wasn't the only squad to taste its first defeat over the weekend, either. The high-flying Canton McKinley Bulldogs bowed, 38-33, to their neighborhood rivals, the Massillon Tigers. And that ended a string of 12 victories without defeat for the Bulldogs.

Cincinnati's last remaining perfect quintet, North College Hill, also fell, 28-25, to suburban Reading, ending an 11-game skid for the Cincinnatians.

That made it possible to count the state's unbeaten Class A fives on the fingers on one hand and still have a couple digits left over.

Among those still unbeaten were: Upper Arlington, which dumped West Ohio League crown with its 12th straight success of the campaign;

Bryan, which clinched the Northwest Ohio league crown with its 12th in a row, 61-46, over Defiance, and Bluffton, the Western Buckeye league champs, who made Ada their 14th consecutive victim, 61-35.

Bluffton and Upper Arlington, incidentally, are roaring along toward an unbeaten scholastic sports year, both having finished the past football season without a tie or defeat.

At least one Class B perfect team fell by the wayside over the weekend, too, Howard of Knox county dropping its first in 15 starts to Fredericktown, 38-37.

The state's two outstanding Class B quintets continued on their merry ways, however. Frazeeburg's Red Raiders chalked up their 19th without setback, polishing off Hopewell, 67-45, to clinch the Muskingum County league crown. And New Holland thumped Salt Creek, 37-16, for its 18th. New Holland has two games to go for a perfect year, including one against unbeaten Ashville for the away county title.

The point-makers were busy, too, as the state Class B quintets neared the end of their seasons, preparing to open the county tournament battles this week and next.

Clarksville high of Ross county set a new season scoring mark in besting Huntington, 113 to 17, in a county league tilt. Adena also crashed the century circle in downing Cadiz, 101 to 58. Forward Joe Doudna hit a new high for Somerset, caging 50 points as his club triumphed, 94-58, over Lewisville in a Guernsey County league go. Carl Gorsuch of Gambler set a new Knox county individual single game record of 45 as his cohorts thumped Bladensburg, 91-24.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Middleweight Rocky Graziano goes before the state athletic commission today (at 1 p. m.) to explain why he failed to report a $100,000 bribe offer to throw a fight that never was held.

The commission is scheduled to hear another fighter, Welterweight Champion Ray Robinson, Friday. Col. Eddie Egan, commission chairman said Robinson is being summoned to recount stories he told newspapermen that a stranger had offered him $25,000 to withdraw from his scheduled fight with former Champion Marty Servo last Sept. 6.

The Robinson-Servo fight was cancelled later when Servo withdrew because of a recurrent nose injury. Later Servo retired and the title was declared vacant.

OHSAA Arranges Tourney Ticket Sale; Will Allot Ducats To Schools Entered

By DON STULL

Ohio A. P. Sports Editor

COLUMBUS, Feb. 4.—The Ohio High School Athletic Association today set March 20, 21 and 22 for the annual state scholastic basketball championship tournament finals and announced a new playoff program designed to give team followers a better break on seats.

The tournament, returning to the State Fairgrounds coliseum here after a war-time absence of five years, will be split into two sections, the four Class B finalists playing in the afternoon and the four in Class A taking the floor at night.

Afternoon games will start at 2:30, evening games at 8 o'clock.

The OHSAA's official announcement gave no explanation for the three-way split program, but board members admitted it was designed partly to give the followers of individual teams a chance to see their teams in action.

In previous tournaments in the coliseum, Class A and B eliminations were run-off together, with fans purchasing tickets that enabled them to see several A and B teams in action at one session.

That, of course, was before the regional eliminations (to decide the four finalists) were added to the tournament program. Then eight Class A and eight Class B teams squared off in the title battles.

The OHSAA named Henry Taylor, director of athletic ticket sales of Ohio State university, to manage this year's tournament and set the price of general admission seats at 75 cents and reserved seats at $1.50.

The board also decreed that seats would be reserved by sections only and announced no mail orders for tickets would be honored. Competing schools will be furnished with the number of tickets they request, and the board said the schools themselves would be authorized to sell tickets to alumni or others.

The board also decided that no arena (ringside) seats would be distributed to schools, asserting that there were too few of these to "send out in such quantities" to individual schools.

The arena seats and any left over from the school sales will be placed on sale at the coliseum each day of the tournament at 9 a. m., with tickets for that day only being sold.

The tourney drawing will be held March 17 at the OHSAA's downtown office here, and each competing team will be allowed one practice session on the 78x50-foot coliseum floor.

The finalists will be decided in county, sectional, district and regional tournaments, with individual tournament managers over the state setting dates, playing time and procedure for their own events.

Sites of this year's regionals are: Class A—New Concord, Kent, Bowling Green and Dayton; Class B—Athens, Kent, Bowling Green and Springfield.

AAF To Reduce Forces In Germany As Economy

FRANKFURT, Feb. 4.—The United States Army Air Forces in Europe would be reduced by 1948 to 100 fighter planes, 75 transports and fewer than 9,000 men under a tentative plan disclosed last night. These forces now consist of 800 fighters, 150 transports and 38,000 men. Only 32 of the fighters are jet-propelled P-80s. The rest are all gasoline-powered P-47s and P-51s, regarded by experts as obsolete. The only bomber left is an unarmed B-29—an "administrative plane" in use in Germany. The reduction is planned for the new cigaret economy which has replaced the old monetary system. The American cigaret is worth many times that of the Reichsmark and will buy things which its equivalent in German currency will not. Germany, he said, is more than a German problem, it is a European problem. No real peace and no economic recovery can be achieved until Germany is on her feet, he said.

Before the war the economic balance in Europe was maintained by Germany, with other countries dependent on her for export trade. The free world, Wolfe maintained, is in an inter-dependent economy and the absence of Germany from this economy upsets the entire balance.

The fact that a revived German industrial setup might mean a war menace, is one that must be met. "There is no easy, short cut way of working out world problems" and we must work out the problems in the only way known.

Germany cannot be limited to merely an agricultural existence, he claimed, for the country never was able to feed itself from within its border before the war. Its only way is by selling exports. Although this means competition with the U. S. and Great Britain, Germany can't be left to her own salvation.

The United States' aim of democratizing Germany suffered severe setbacks following the cessation of hostilities, the speaker stated. Our soldiers lost interest in the occupation and engaged in black market activities and otherwise displayed themselves to poor advantage.

The U. S. forces had no plan, Wolfe said, when they went into the country. The Russians did have such an occupation plan, but it has not met with too much success. This has been evident in subsequent elections in the occupied country where the Communist party gathered only 20 per cent of the votes.

Wolfe maintained, however, that our cause would gain ground if given the proper personnel to carry out plans and given a workable plan to use.

Moscow Parley Vital

Regarding the pending peace treaty in Moscow in March, Wolfe was of the opinion that "all our lives will be influenced by the decisions reached."

If the four powers can write a good treaty for Germany, revive her, while still holding her in check, make her a meeting place for both the East and West, we can look forward to a period of recovery and peace.

If not, he said, we are in for a period of instability and a threat of war.

The Russians, Wolfe said, are not too well understood by U. S. diplomats. Their methods of bargaining are far different than those employed by our country. "You can't get along with the Russians while on your knees," he said.

American Experts Needed
Wolfe pointed out that the people of Europe would rather follow the U. S. than Russia, but will have no choice if we back down in the final analysis. We must carry on our foreign relations on a moral basis in order to succeed, the speaker emphasized.

In the question period that followed his talk, Wolfe said he hoped for a U. S. "council of experts" or group of elder statesmen, who would formulate the basic long-range plans of the country. His two qualifications for the group would be ability and Americanism.

The speaker was introduced by Ralph Hawley, Town Hall chairman.

Fear Gas Well Drilling Will Hurt Water Fields

CANTON, Feb. 4.—The city's water department superintendent today disclaimed responsibility for what might happen to the water supply after city council last night sanctioned the drilling of natural gas wells in the main water field.

In a letter to city council, Alfred E. Ransom, the water department head, declared that no drilling method guaranteed absolutely the safety of the water.

Council later unanimously adopted a water committee report which recommended that drilling rights in the field be granted to the Markey Oil & Gas Co. under conditions of the concern's November, 1946, agreement to drill for gas and oil on city park lands.

Committee members said bureau of mines officials had informed them that the proposed drilling was safe and would not affect water supplies.

VON PAPEN BACK IN PRISON CELL

The court president, Camille Sachs, said the trial could continue tomorrow, but that Von Papen would be guarded by police during his appearance in the courtroom.
